Dear DAAD Alumni/ae,

The Alumni Association is nearing the end of a busy year. We (co)sponsored and had board members participate in nine events this year.

I want to thank all of you who renewed their membership this year, and especially those who donated to our scholarships.

Make sure to skip down to the next page to read about two amazing RISE students and their experience. Without your support we would not be able to give our students a unique opportunity, even a life-changing experience for some.

When I attended the RISE scholar meeting last year, it was inspiring to hear from a scientist how his RISE scholarship a decade ago lead to doctoral studies in Germany that turned a resulting mentorship into a research position back at a US university a trajectory set in motion by an undergraduate grant of about $2,000. You may not know that our board is staffed with volunteers only; most of us hold university positions, so all your fees and donations go to fund the scholarships that we, in collaboration with the DAAD, provide to US students going to Germany. Thank you again, and yes, I have to say it – use this link below to renew for 2016! http://alumni.daad.org/187850

See http://tinyurl.com/DAADEvents for a list of main events. While centered in New York City, our trustees are based around the USA in different disciplines to reach out to our local communities – from Rhode Island to Texas, from DC to California. Read all the details in your letter below. Our main annual event, the Sound Understanding Concert in Carnegie Hall, will be on Thursday, April 7th, 2016. It is a special occasion – our 15th anniversary concert. Please stay tuned and I hope to see you there!
The Association also welcomes your involvement and communication among our members. You can contact us or post at our Facebook group (see link below). Some ideas: Do you have a story to tell about your own grant, be it from 1950 or 2015? Do you have a photo to go along with your story? Do you have a concert, a show, a reading or event coming up that you want our members to know about? Would you like us to cosponsor an event at your university? Would your company or university like to become a member or advertise in our April Concert brochure? Please get in touch with us at alumniassociation@daad.org

Thank you for your support!

Scholarship News
By Board member Mechthild Schmidt Feist

The DAAD organizes Summer Course Grants that enable students to take intensive language and cultural courses at German universities. The DAAD Alumni Association was happy to provide the funds for Priscilla Sanchez and Mark Elyse to spend a summer improving their German language skills. Eleven years ago the DAAD instituted summer Research Internships in Science and Engineering (RISE) grants... Aside of the DAAD itself, several organizations help sponsor the total of over 300 scholarships for students from the USA, Canada, Great Britain and other countries. The DAAD Alumni Association USA congratulates six grantees to their selection from a very competitive process. Our grants are earmarked to support environmental research. Cyrus Belenky, Natalie Isenberg, Kyungjoo Park, Jia-Ahn Pan, Jisheng Zhang, and Sara Sand went to German universities to work with German PhD candidates on projects as diverse as “Photocatalytic Wastewater Treatment with Unsteady Process Conditions” and “MOF-coating on ceramic foams for Energy Storage.”

Here are Natalie Isenberg and Kyungjoo Park telling you about their summer in Germany:

My name is Natalie Isenberg, and I am a senior Chemical Engineering student at the University of Pittsburgh. This past summer, I was fortunate enough to be a DAAD RISE grant holder. The opportunity was granted to me by the DAAD Alumni Association of the USA and was something I had dreamed of since first hearing about the DAAD RISE program as a freshman student. To have it actually happen was a surreal experience, and I realize how fortunate I was to have been selected as a grant recipient. My most treasured memories of the experience are related to the friends I found in the state capital city of Magdeburg. Since I was the lone RISE student working in Magdeburg (with my closest neighbors at a 1.5 hour train ride to Berlin!) I was at first apprehensive about making friends and having ways to spend my free time outside of the lab. It ended up being that the members of my lab became my closest friends for my stay in Germany. Particularly my PhD student mentor, Juliane, was kind beyond what was expected of a mentor. She would invite me over to cook dinner, or to go swim in the lake, or go have a beer, and I was even invited to visit with her and her family in Hamburg. I was essentially adopted by her group of friends and I have never before felt so welcomed by a group of strangers. Of course, the intellectual rigor of the research position and German language acquisition were also integral and enjoyable parts of my time in the DAAD RISE program. But I got something even better out of it than just another undergraduate research experience—I got a group of friends on the European continent who I still keep in touch with and plan to see again soon. Currently, I am applying to PhD programs and my future career goal is to become a research faculty member at a university so that I may also mentor young scientists. The DAAD RISE program gave me insight into the real value of professional cultural exchange, and the way in which science is conducted in another nation. This knowledge will be invaluable to my future career as a scientist, and I formally thank the DAAD RISE Alumni Association of the USA for this opportunity.

Being part of DAAD Rise program was an absolutely amazing experience. Having lived in Germany for a year before, I’ve always been interested in studying or working in Germany. My research internship at the University of Stuttgart allowed me to experience what it’s like to work in Germany and see how different their work culture is compared to America. The internship taught me how to apply theories I learned in chemical engineering classes to research. I was exposed to a wide range of research areas and it helped me appreciate what I study even more. But more importantly, I gained a network of support. I had a great mentor who guided me through my project and helped me design my own experiments. I am also so thankful to have met all the incredible people in my lab who always made me smile and taught me how to speak better German. I definitely plan on applying to graduate schools in Germany after this incredible experience. Thank you so much, DAAD Rise team! Kyungjoo Park

Fresh Off the Boat

Each September the DAAD New York welcomes the newly arrived German DAAD grantees to a ‘Fresh Off the Boat’ party. Fittingly, you could take the East River Ferry to the riverside restaurant with splendid skyline views. Our board member Manfred Philipp was there to meet the new arrivals. As always, DAAD’s own Amra Dumisic’s tireless organizational skills made sure we were informed and invited! (photo credit: unknown)

DAAD and HAUS at Texas A&M University
By Board members Rick White and Nancy Stuhlmuller

Rick White and Nancy Stuhlmuller manned the table for DAAD and HAUS (Heidelberg Alumni US) at the Study Abroad Fair at Texas A&M University on October 23, 2015. It was well attended with an impressive number of students stopping by who were studying German, Arabic and Russian. Rick and Nancy were working with students, answering questions, giving pointers, and talking to academic advisors about the many opportunities available to students through the DAAD. The two largest groups who wanted to study in Germany and had many questions were German majors and engineering students.

Germany and the Greek Crisis Conference
By Board member Manfred Philipp

On October 6, 2015 the DAAD Alumni Association sponsored a conference on Germany and the Greek Crisis at The Mortara Center for International Studies at Georgetown University in Washington DC. The event honored the Washington DC area’s DAAD Students and Scholars. Participating in the event were three highly prominent scholars. Serving as moderator was Jeffrey J. Anderson, Director of Georgetown’s BMW Center for German & European Studies and Professor in Georgetown’s Department of Government (photo left). The two other panelists were Steve H. Hanke, Professor Applied Economics at The Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore (photo middle) and Anne O. The European Refugee Crisis
By Board member Sigrid Berka

Rhode Island, October 8, 2015
The event was part of German Campus Week to celebrate 25 Years of German Unification. My colleagues and I from URI’s German Section felt that we could not celebrate without also addressing THIS crisis of historical proportions affecting Germany right now, and all of Europe for that matter and, of course, large parts of the Middle East from where the majority of migrants originate. Fortunately, we could convene a panel of experts, which shed light onto the topic from diverse viewpoints. There were 80 people in the audience among them our DAAD ISAP scholars from the TU Braunschweig. This made for a lively discussion afterwards. Speakers were:

Michael Honhart - a Professor in our University of Rhode Island History department whose research centers on Modern Germany and European nationalism. He viewed the crisis from a historical perspective, defining what it meant and means to be "German". He contributed his thoughts about refugee, immigration, and asylum issues in past decades.

Katrin Joma – Assistant Professor, Departments of Political Science and Philosophy. Her research is interdisciplinary between the fields of religion and political science. She focuses on the relationship between religion and politics in Muslim majority countries. She talked about how the crisis started in Syria, how it is continuing, and also how it is a global political matter with several countries involved, not just pertaining to Syria.

Norbert Hedderich - a Professor of German and Chair of the Department of Modern & Classical Languages and Literature. He had been following the news about the refugee crisis, both in the German and in the U.S press very closely, and summarized the German response and its reception world-wide.

Ric McIntyre - Professor of Economics put the discussion into the context of the colonial and post-colonial history of southwest Asia and American policy there. He claimed that there is no European crisis when we put this one in perspective when compared with other real crises on the globe. He focused on Afghanistan, the second largest source of refugees, and on Iraq.

18th Annual Colloquium on International Engineering Education, Nov. 5-6, 2015, New York City
(quoted from iie.org)

“With over 150 attendees, this year’s Colloquium on International Engineering Education attracted the largest number of participants ever, as well as many first-time attendees and veterans in the field of engineering education. The two day Colloquium organized by IIE and DAAD in New York City brought together representatives of more than 100 universities, including 25 foreign institutions, that are currently training the next generation of global engineers, as well as NGO and government leaders to examine topics related to engineering education and preparing students for the engineering workforce. ...”

Welcome Brunch for German DAAD grantees in New York City

By Board member Mechthild Schmidt Feist

On December 5, 2015 board members Mechthild Schmidt Feist and Manfred Philipp greeted about 30 German students, most of them current DAAD grantees, some DAAD alumni on a Fulbright scholarship, as well as some Fulbright scholars. The event was hosted by Professor Schmidt Feist at New York University- School of Professional Studies. Professor Plass, faculty at NYU - Steinhardt and DAAD alumnus joined us.

Many attendees found fellow students at their university or across the city in the same discipline – or – even from their German alma mater. The majority is studying at New York University and Columbia Universities. Other students are at CUNY Baruch, New School/Parsons and Manhattan School of Music. Everyone appreciated the opportunity to meet and asked for an encore in 2016.

TRUSTEE NEWS

New Trustee. We welcome a new Trustee on the board of the DAAD Alumni Association USA. In June 2015 we were joined by Dr. Erika Berroth, Associate Professor of German, Southwestern University, Georgetown, TX

ERIKA BERROTH calls her DAAD scholarship a life changing experience academically, professionally and personally. As a student of German and English at Eberhard-Karls-Universität Tübingen, she could integrate a year of study abroad in England from 1983-84, earning a postgraduate degree in English Studies. Experiencing the energy of teaching and learning in a different culture inspired her transition into the US higher education system after she graduated from Tübingen with a Staatsexamen. Integrating teaching and learning, Erika Berroth earned her Ph.D. from the University of California, Santa Barbara and taught German at undergraduate and graduate levels at UCSB, Santa Barbara City College, Oberlin College, Carleton College, Lewis & Clark College, Minnesota State University at Mankato, and is currently head of the German program at Southwestern University in Georgetown, Texas. She integrates German with Environmental Studies, Feminist Studies, International Studies, and STEM. She has published a book on Heinrich von Kleist and is currently completing a book on transnational identity narratives by Marica Bodrožić. Joining the board of the DAAD-AA in the fall of 2015, she looks forward to supporting DAAD’s future oriented mission of providing meaningful intercultural and international experiences for learners and teachers in global environments. Erika Berroth participates in our Membership, Media PR, and Awards Committees. You can read more about Erika and her work at http://www.southwestern.edu/departments/german/.

Meetings of the DAAD Alumni Association Board of Trustees. The DAAD Alumni Association Trustees met for two full board meetings on the day of the Sound Understanding Concert in April, and again on October 6. At our October meeting at Georgetown University, we established the Public Relations and Media Committee of the Board. You can find our trustees here: http://tinyurl.com/DAADBoard.

DAAD Research Ambassadors. The DAAD Alumni Association thanks the Research Ambassador volunteers. Several of the Ambassadors are current or past Board members (indicated with a *).
